Challenge 1

Subordinating Conjunctions

Subordinating conjunctions are special words that help us create complex sentences by connecting an independent clause (a complete thought) with a dependent clause (an incomplete thought).

Complete the sentences below by adding the correct subordinating conjunction from the list: although, because, while, since, if, when, unless.

1. She was scared _____ she knew they had to leave their home.
2. _____ they travelled through the forest, they saw many different animals.
3. _____ their journey was difficult, they never gave up hope.
4. They decided to leave _____ they believed it would be safer.
5. _____ the family reached the border, they faced many challenges.
6. _____ they couldn't take much with them, they packed their memories.
7. _____ they left, they remembered the beautiful moments they had at home.
8. _____ the children were scared, they trusted their parents.

Challenge 2

Imagine you are embarking on an exciting adventure through a dense and mysterious forest. Write the next three sentences describing your journey using subordinating conjunctions like 'although,' 'because,' 'while,' 'since,' 'if,' 'when,' and 'unless' to add depth to your description.

Example: As I ventured into the heart of the forest, I felt a sense of curiosity growing within me. Although the path was narrow and overgrown, I pressed on because I was eager to discover what lay ahead.
